A HUNGARIAN HERO.

The Terrible Episode That Deprived Ferencz Renyi of His Reason.

Hungarian papers announce the death of old Ferencz Renyi, a hero of one of the most terrible episodes of the Hungarian war of independence in 1848. For thirty-six years Renyi has been a lunatic in a Buda-Pesth asylum, and the history of his sufferings is recorded after his death by the Petit Parisien. Ferencz Renyi was a young schoolmaster of twenty-seven years at the beginning of the war, proud, handsome and full of buoyant life. His pupils adored him, and he was always welcome among the villagers, whether he come with his violin to play to their dances or whether his voice was heard among the patriots chanting the praise of their country. He lived with his mother and sister, and was engaged to a bright young Hungarian girl, when the government, after proclaiming the independence of the country, called all good patriots to arms. Ferencz left his school and enlisted in the ranks. One day, after having fought valiantly at the head of a detachment of soldiers, he was taken prisoner by the Austrians. Brought before General Haynau, Renyi refused to indicate where the rest of his regiment lay hidden. On learning that his home was in a neighboring village the General sent for his mother and sister and brought them into the room where the prisoner was kept. "Now give me the information I require, if the lives of these two women are dear to you," said Gen. Haynau to him. Renyi trembled, his eyes filled with tears, but he remained silent. "Do not speak my son," cried the old mother, "do your duty and think not of me, for at the best I have only a few days to live." "If you betray your country," added his sister, "our name will be covered with shame, and what is life without honor? Do not speak, Ferencz. Be calm; I shall know how to die." Renyi remained silent, and a few minutes later the women were dead. Another trial was to come. Gen. Haynau sent for Renyi's future wife, who was weaker than his mother and sister. With wild cries she flung herself at her lover's feet, pleading: "Speak, speak, Ferenz. See, I am young. I love you; do not let me be killed. You will save yourself and me if you speak out. When you are free we will go far away and be happy. Speak, my Ferencz, and save your future wife." She took his hands, clinging to him as a drowning man clings to his last support. The young Hungarian was choked with tears; but suddenly he pushed the girl aside and turned away. Once more she cried to him, but he did not heed her. Then the soldiers seized her. "Be cursed," she shrieked, "you who let me die; you who kill me; who are my assassin." Renyi remained silent. The girl was shot, and the prisoner was taken back to his cell, but his reason had fled, and he was dismissed. Some friends found him and gave him a shelter; till Hungary was once more suppressed and peace established, they obtained a place for him in the asylum in which he recently died.

Breeding Pigs For Profit.

The pigs should have room for exercise to develop the growth of muscle and harden the flesh. Skimmed milk and buttermilk give whiteness to the flesh, and oats and barley a far better flavor than corn. In season corn "in the milk," especially sweet corn, both stalk and ear, are excellent food. Corn meal may be given instead of oats and barley at the finish, but potatoes and milk are the best food for staple diet. Cottonseed meal should be sedulously avoided. It is almost always fatal to young pigs, being too nitrogenenous and causing congestion of the brain (blind staggers). If there is need for any laxative food some bran added to boiled potatoes has been found excellent and relieves all troubles. A very little salt—not more than a teaspoonful for half a dozen pigs—is given with benefit, when no milk can be afforded.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indiscribable. The distress of the body is equaled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief that is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Rumors of a European war created a temporary panic on the Paris Bourse last week.

The bill granting a pension to Walt Whitman has been favorably reported to the House.

"Let's Suppose a Case"

A local correspondent believes he has ascertained just why there is so general complaint about scarcity of money, and under the head-line of "Hard Times" gives his opinion as follows:

"This expression is heard long and often in country towns. How can it be remedied? ought to be the question with every body. To remedy an evil it is necessary to find the cause: A and B are two farmers living in the same town. A raises horses for sale and B raises grain. When A goes to buy his Winter grain to feed his horses, he does not purchase it of B or even of the town storekeeper. But as he can save $5 00 on the ton by buying in some metropolis, he buys it there. If he buys five tons he saves $25 00. B now tries to sell his grain to the storekeeper, but he finds he must take the same price A bought his for in the metropolis, consequently he looses $25 00. A now wants to sell his horses and B must buy some; but now it is B's turn to save. So instead of buying of A he starts out to buy cheap horses and save the $25 00 he lost on his grain. As a result he buys some broken down horses, pays the money into a stranger's hands and saves the $25 00. A must now start out to a strange place to sell his horses, and should he be able to find a purchaser it will cost him $25 00 to make the sale. A has now saved $25 on his grain and lost it on his horses; B has lost that amount on his grain and saved it on his horses, and the money invested has benefited strangers and strange towns in both cases. This is true in other business. The housewife sells her eggs and butter to the town storekeeper, and buys her dry goods in the metropolis. The dry goods merchant tries to sell his goods to the farmer, but buys his produce in the metropolis. The grocer tries to sell his groceries to the farmer, but buys his grain in the metropolis. As a result, money grows scarce, prices decline and hard times increase."—Calistogan.

The American Dairyman thinks bee-keeping should be combined with dairying. Milk and honey seem to go together very well in a sentimental way, but practically they have little or nothing in common. Butter and honey are most amicable associates upon good bread, and even make hard bread a delicacy. Still, dairy folks ought to give more attention to bees the country through. The pastures abound at certain seasons with bee pasturage. Forest trees, fruit trees, wild raspberries, and, other wild fruits, yeild enormous quantities of honey, which every year goes to waste for want of harvesters. Let us raise more bees. They are a kind of live stock hard to fence, but sure to come home at night.

A Coward's Monument.

A monument to a coward!

Yes, that is it.

One of Sherman's men, who was so well pleased when he came here about twenty years ago that he decided to locate permanently, says that in Brown county, Indiana, before the war, there was a great big, lubberly fellow named John Crittenden, who was regarded in school as the biggest coward in the State. Anybody could run over John Crittenden. When the war broke out the coward joined an artillery company. At Hartsville, Tenn., Morgan's cavalry charged the battery to which John Crittenden belonged, and when the order was given to retreat the coward alone stood by the guns, and while in the act of loading a sabre thrust ended his life. His body was sent to his home and a great funeral took place. The coward had become the hero, and a monument was erected to mark his resting place and tell the story of how he died — Atlanta Constitution.

A Warm Choice.

There is a story told that one day not far from Atlanta, a young man, after listening to a certain preacher pound and expound the scriptures for two hours, arose and started to leave the church.

The preacher stopped short.

"Young man!" he said.

The young man stopped.

"If you'd rather go to hell than to hear me preach, just go on!"

"Well," replied the young man after a pause, "I believe I would rather!" and out he went.

IN the case of M. J. Kerrigan vs. the Gilroy Hot Springs Stage Line, tried before Judge Armstrong and a jury in San Francisco this week, the jury brought in a verdict of $20,000 damages. The suit was for injuries received by plaintiff through an accident on the stage line.

SINCE the speech of Editor Grady of the Atlanta "Constitution" on "The New South," he has sprung into a phenomenal prominence before the country. He is announced as the coming leader of the new South he so eloquently described. The South needs and might well be proud of such a leader, and the merits of editors generally need more of the old recognition of times past.—Ex.

ABOUT the smallest man in the State of Nevada to-day is Governor Stevenson. His inaugural address to the Legislature of that State, and which was palmed off on that body and the people as being an original document, it now transpires was plagiarized. The Virginia Chronicle of the 9th inst., published Gov. Stevenson's address side by side with the message of Gov. Foraker to the Ohio Legislature in 1886, thereby convicting the former of being a literary thief. The circumstance has created quite a commotion in the Sage Brush State.

WINE AND VINE NOTES.

THE idea of treating vines with electricity or galvanism was mooted in this county several years ago.

SINCE the lowering of prices to the grower has the price of wine been lessened to the wine consumers of San Francisco? Wine formerly costing $5 per case should now be worth $2 50 only.

IT would be interesting to many to know the actual amount of wine sold as Sonoma wine to compare with the actual quantity made in this county. Several firms who profess to deal largely in our wines buy chiefly in Fresno and Los Angeles.

AN English Member of Parliament is at present at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, with a view of investigating our wines. Messrs. Gundlach & Co. should induce him to visit our county. Show him the products of Rhine Farm and of the valley generally.

LET wine-makers remember the fable of the bundle of faggots. All that the grape-grower wants is that the consumer should know whether he is drinking pure, wholesome or fabricated wine. California should remember that this is not the only wine-growing State in the Union and that Eastern interests must be consulted as well as our own.

WE have been asked what wine produces the darkest red wines. Well, at present, this is rather a mystery, as Lenoir, Charbono, Malbec and Grosser blauer (of these the Malbec is the only high class wine) have all claimed the palm, but this is a question that Mr. Crabb of Oakville, Napa county, could probably answer more fitly than any one else in the State.

THE Chronicte at last appears as a comic paper. It is dead against anything but grape juice pure and simple, then recommends the addition of honey and at last publishes an interview on the subject of the reduction of prices in wines and the demand for pure wines and—well "he who runneth can read." Leading questions are not admissable by law.

A SUBSCRIBER of ours has just shown us a letter from a gentleman in France, who at one time was largely connected with the vine industry in this State. One remark in the letter struck us particularly: "I am trying hard to find a heavy bearing vine that would make a good ordinary red wine in California, as that is apparently the only kind of wine that will pay." So here it is on all sides. No encouragement to the producer by the dealer to try and improve his stocks. Does the consumer want all his life to drink only ordinary red wine or will he pay for a good one?

WINE made simply and purely from the juice of the grapes of one variety can seldom be a success with the consumer. Unfortunately it is a fact that the average consumer prefers what he likes to what is pure, but at the same time no host in the whole Republic would dare to put down before his guests wine marked as adulterated or fabricated; so all that is necessary would be stamps on stretched, adulterated or fabricated wines, with a simple revenue law against them and public sanitary inspecters who can seize samples for analysis to enable the Revenue Department to prosecute the vendors of all fabricated, impure or adulterated articles of consumption. Wine comes under the heading of food and should be protected as such.

GLANCING over the wines from the most famous vineyards of the world, we find that in the majority of instances all wines are the result of carefully considered blends, made on the vineyard. We find that to ports and sherries other substances than the result of the pure juice of the grape are added. In fact, if one of the parties at present disputing about the purity of wine could be satisfied, then good bye to our vine industry forever. Clarification would be forbidden and our wines would have to age themselves sufficiently to remain clear when bottled without being clarified, and there is not enough capital in the whole business to hold wines sufficiently long for this; and, additionally, what would become of the market in the meantime?

WE have recently examined samples of so-called clarets from some well-known vineyards, that were apparently bottled for the market, but in no instance did the wine remain bright even two days after being opened, though tightly corked and laid on the side after one glass had been taken from each sample. Presumably the wines were young and had not been clarified, but supposing such wines found their way to the cellar of an Eastern or European connoisseur, what would be the result?—an opinion against our wines. So with what reason can it be urged that all legitimate means such as fixings, etc., may not be taken to improve our wines. Ask any San Francisco wine merchant and he will tell you how troublesome it is to assimilate the numerous grades of wine grown in our State and prepare them for shipment East.

THE San Francisco Daily Report strikes the nail square on the head. "How about a bill for pure apple pie?" We want pure wines as far as we can have them, but fit to drink. We want pure pie, but we want some pie fit to eat. We want pure turkey at Thanksgiving, but we do like some stuffing in it and cranberry sauce. We want pure bread, but we do like some salt and leaven in it; and we do want pure mashed potatoes, but we do think the addition of a little salt and butter an improvement. Let there be reason in all things. We do not believe our wines need artificial flavor or color; we do not believe that our wines need chemical additions, but we do think that if no addition whatever is to be added or put into wines that a lot of bottled pea soup will soon be seen on our tables, for very few people have eight or ten-year-old wines to bottle.

How soothing! Then will the lion lie down with the lamb. The following paragraph is taken from an interview of a Chronicle reporter with a—well, how shall we express it?—a noted wine merchant:

"And what do you think is the outlook of the whole market?"

"I think it is hopeful. The pure article must triumph in the end, the shams will have their day, the consumer will at some time demand and receive protection, and meanwhile the California vineyardists must do their duty, and go on turning out the very best wines they know how to."

This is too delicious! Is the gentleman who answered the query in favor of stringent laws against adulterations and stretchings? We also would like to know who it is that have not done their duty—the vineyardists or the dealers? Possibly some of both have, but we do know that year after year the vineyardists have gone on improving their stocks, unable to obtain a word of sound advice from a dealer as what to plant. We do know that our growers have been at the sole expense of severe and troublesome experiments in order to improve California wines, and we would ask what encouragement they have ever had from the gentleman in question. We would like to know if he has bought a gallon of the very best wines that have been lately made in our State. We would like to know if he has ever even visited the best known vineyards in this county; and we would like to know if there is any firm in the city that has bought cheaper wines? We assert nothing, but simply are inquiring after knowledge. If the vineyardists are to blame for all our inferior wines then why are they bought so readily? We willingly admit that there are some firms in the city that would not take certain grades and varieties of wines into their cellars even if given them; but the question now naturally arises are not "SHAMS" having their day very largely at present, and if the gentleman in question is so conversant with the fact why not start a crusade against them and so hand his name as a reformer down to posterity? We do bitterly blame our Viticultural Commissioners, for the fact that they, an official body, allow themselves to lie under the imputation that they know the stretchers and adulterers of wines and do not make their names public. They would only be doing their duty by so doing and would be universally upheld by the State at large.

What good, cheering advice to vineyardists: "Go ahead, do your duty!" Go to great expense to improve our wines! Make the best wines you can—for TEN cents a gallon. May the good Lord save us from our friends!

WASHINGTON LETTER.

A Member of the Cabinet to Resign---Those Dear Old Girls Again.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31, 1887.

Every one seems to have been surprised when it was announced that there was really to be a change in the Cabinet soon. So many unfounded reports of Cabinet changes have found their way to Washington from a distance during the present Administration that people are not disposed to credit any rumor on this subject.

But it is generally believed that Secretary Manning intends to leave the Treasury Department after the adjournment of Congress, to accept the presidency of the new National Bank of New York, at a salary of $20,000, more than twice what he gets as a member of the Cabinet. There has been much speculation during the past few days as to his probable successor, and as to whether his resignation had anything to do with the unpleasantness between him and the President.

There has been another woman suffrage debate in the Senate and another vote with the usual result. "That was a magnificent triumph," exclaimed Miss Susan B. Anthony, as she gazed at the printed record of the vote of two to one against her, with which the Senate rejected the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution. There is nothing like her unfailing cheerfulness in the midst of defeat. She cannot be dismayed by adversity, and optimistically greets every reverse with a smile of hope.

There has also been a rattling and spirited Woman's Suffrage convention at this favorite rallying point of theirs since I last wrote you. This was their nineteenth annual meeting here, and Miss Anthony says it was one of the most successful they have ever had. The meetings were largely attended and the speaking was the best the ladies could do. They were much pleased at the good attendance, and compared the over-flowing audiences of this winter with the empty benches they had addressed in years gone by, saying it was now almost the fashionable thing to do to go to the Woman's Rights convention.

They have planned a great celebration for next winter, in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the beginning of their movement in this country. Forty years ago, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, at a meeting in Seneca Falls, N. Y., introduced the first resolution favoring the franchise of woman. She is billed for a speech on the same subject at the anniversary celebration, although her husband is quoted as saying that she is done with the suffrage agitation. Mr. Stanton said that his wife is convinced that her sex does not want to vote. They do not suffer any inconvenience from the lack of the ballot, added he, they do not desire it to any appreciable extent, and the suffrage agitators are banging away at something that offers no response whatever. He thought that if one woman in every ten, yes, in every hundred, would petition Congress for the ballot they would get it at once.

As the time for the President to sign or veto the Inter-State commerce bill approaches, interest in the subject increases, Senators and Representatives question each other in order to learn all the talk of the Houses and lobbies, and reports that the President will sign it or veto it fly alternately between the White House and the Capitol. Assuming that the measure will get the Executive signature, if there is any difficulty in the selection of men to serve their country on the railroad commisssion at $7,500 a year, it will not be found in the sparsity of candidates, but rather in the redundancy of talent that will be spread before the President. There are about sixty men who have been mentioned for commissioners, many of whom have been prominent and are now relegated to private life. [The bill received the President's signature Tuesday, and is now a law.—ED.]

The issue between the President and the Senate in regard to the Recorder of Deeds is very simple, and cannot in its present phrase, be distorted into a question involving the right of a colored Democrat to hold office, as has been attempted. The people of the District asked for one of their own men for the office. The President served them with a stranger, and the Senate refused to confirm the appointment. The President re-appointed him, and the Senate again rejected him. That is all there is of it. And until the name of a colored citizen of the District is sent in for the office by the President and rejected by the Senate, it cannot honestly be claimed that the color line issue is a factor in the case.

A Serious Charge.

[Santa Rosa Democrat.]

A complaint was filed with Justice Brown Tuesday morning by John Fulkerson, charging Eugene Redding and John Dresler with abducting his daughter, who is under 18 years of age, for the purpose of prostitution. The young men were arrested Thursday and taken before Justice Brown where they were made acquainted with the charge preferred against them. The circumstances are as follows: Miss Fulkerson left her home Wednesday evening for the purpose of spending the night with her friend Miss Cockrill of San Francisco, who is visiting in this city. As the young lady had not returned at a late hour Thursday morning, her parents became alarmed and instituted a search. It was then learned, much to their surprise, that their daughter and Miss Cockrill who is about 19 years of age, were not to be found, and had not been at Miss Cockrill's residence during the night. Further inquiry was made which disclosed the fact that the girls had passed the night with Dresler and Redding, at the New York Hotel, and had departed for San Francisco on the early train Thursday morning. It is thought that the young men intended to go to San Francisco on the afternoon train and join the girls. Being unable to furnish $1,000 bonds they were remanded to the County Jail to await their examination. Redding is a red rubber stamp agent and has only been in this city a short time, while his companion, Dresler, has been here some time and has borne a good reputation. Sentiment seems to be divided over the affair, some being of the opinion that Miss Fulkerson was led by her elder companion, while others lay all the blame on the young men. The charge upon which they are held is a serious one, and punishable by imprisonment not to exceed five years, and a fine not exceeding $1000.

Mothers should remember, when a physician cannot be procured, that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral promptly relieves the croup.

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: "I am entirely well."

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

Alva Lyon, son of J H. and Lizzie Lyon, a young man eighteen years of age, and a resident of Woodlood, died in this place at the home of his uncle, R. B. Lyon, last Sunday. Deceased arrived in Sonoma in quest of employment one week before his death. The night after his arrival he was taken suddenly ill, his complaint being inflammation of the bowels, and after a weeks' suffering the young man peacefully passed away. His remains were taken to Santa Rosa for interment.

One Tramp Robs Another.

On Tuesday evening last there arrived in this place two tramps, hailing from Napa. After remaining here several hours they left for Santa Rosa about dark, and when about five miles from town, one knocked the other down and after severely beating him robbed him of a watch and chain. The injured man made his way to town covered with blood and reported the occurrence to Marshal Vallejo, but his assailant made good his escape. The injured tramp appeared to be an honest man in quest of work. He says he met his companion the day before in Napa and he prevailed on him to accompany him to this valley, where he represented work could easily be obtained. He says when they reached a lonely part of the road he was suddenly knocked down by a blow on the back of his head, and his assailant after rifling his pockets, left him for dead. He regained conciousness, however, in a few minutes and hastened to town and was kindly cared for by mine host Mr. Henry Raschen of the Union Hotel.

The Concert.

The vocal and instrumental concert of the Methodist Church, which takes place at Union Hall, next Friday evening, will be a musical treat which no one in this valley should miss. Among those who will appear on this occasion is Prof. F. A. Bacon, teacher of vocal music and voice culture, Napa College. Mr. Bacon has been pronounced one of the finest tenor singers on the Pacific Coast. He is a graduate of the Conservatory of Music, Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio. Miss M. Lizzie Doggett, who will assist him, is a graduate of the same institution and is a first-class musician. Miss Lou McFarland, Miss Gertie Carley and Mr. John Parkinson of the Conservatory of Music of Napa College will also appear. The high standing and reputation of these artists in the musical world ought to insure a crowded house.

Plant Fruit Trees.

Quite a number of fruit trees are being set out by our farmers in different parts of the valley. We are pleased to note this, as a diversity of crops is safer and more profitable in the long run in any farming community. It will not do to depend entirely upon grapes. Let us plant good fruit trees and plenty of them. By the time they are in good bearing we will certainly have direct shipping facilities to the profitable fruit markets of the East. Then should that great dread of the vineyardist come—a late frost—or, should any other unforseen misfortune happen to the grape crop our farmers will have something to fall back upon.

Scalded.

J. Baxter, living on the Webb place in the southern part of town, met with a very painful accident last Saturday. It appears the kitchen stove, in which a hot fire was burning, suddenly toppled over. Mr. Baxter sprang forward to right it, and as he did so a teakettle of boiling water fell upon him, scalding one of his legs so severely that the flesh peeled off in strips. His injuries, although not necessarily dangerous, will confine him to his home for some time.

The Donahue Estate.

Mrs. Annie Donahue, widow of the late Peter Donahue, filed an amended petition in Judge Coffey's Court, San Francisco, on Monday last, asking for a partial distribution of her husband's estate. The appraised value of the same is $3,778,312. Mrs. Donahue declines to release or assign any claim or interest in common, and she asks for her share, one-half of the community property. She also asks that J. Mervyn Donahue and Mary E. Von Schroder be required to answer the petition.

An Evening of Song.

A choice vocal and instrumental concert of music will be given by Prof. Bacon, Miss Doggett and others connected with the Conservatory of Music of Napa College, on Friday evening, February 18th, at Union Hall, for the benefit of the Methodist Church of this city. Admission fifty cents. *

A dog belonging to Mr. Rohrer, says the Santa Rosa "Republican," who resides on King street, was taken to Oregon by Chas. Page and David Wheeler about a year ago. Two weeks ago the dog returned home by itself. The distance over which he traveled was not less than 700 miles.

For the Perusal of Business Men.

Few business men know how to expend money judiciously in advertising. It may be termed an art, which should receive thought and attention the same as any branch of a man's business. "Thousands of dollars," says a writer, "are thrown away by people who want to advertise and don't know how. Some people are spasmodic and only advertise on special occasions like the holidays; others have a passion for seeing their names on fences, or thrown about the streets on little bits of paper. An advertisement is valuable not only in proportion to the number of people who read it but the class of people it reaches. An advertisement in a weekly paper is worth six times as much as an advertisement in a daily with the same circulation, for the reason that the daily is hastily read and thrown aside, while the weekly is a household treasure. whose visit is hailed with rejoicing by wife and children, and its contents are read and discussed around the evening fireside Even the advertisements which do not even attract a passing notice in the daily paper, are conned over carefully in the family weekly, and every new feature fastened on the minds of the readers. The patent medicine men, being shrewd advertiser, have made this discovery and are utilizing every local paper in the country. Then the local weekly reaches hundreds of families who take no other paper, and this is the only way to reach them. The man who understands the advertising business will not fail to utilize the columns of the country weeklies, and we venture the assertion that his money invested in their space will yield an income ten times greater than from any other advertising investment. The man who jumps in and advertises only at certain seasons, does not make the best use of his money. It is better than no advertising, but not half so good as regular advertising. The true way to advertise is to engage a space in a country weekly by the year, such as the means of the advertiser will warrent, and make frequent changes. The most successful business men are adopting this plan."

A Legend of Good St. Valentine.

St. Valentine at Peter's gate
Did knock with might and main,
"Let me out for once, ere 'tis too late;
My time has come again."

Then Peter slowly turned the key,
And let the good saint go,
It was the fourteenth of Februaree,
And the ground was white with snow.

The saint he smiled as he paced Broadway,
His teeth gleamed clear and pearly,
For he actually hadn't been out in broad day
Since in the third century—early.

"But,love" thought he, "and life and youth
Are surely the same as of yore,
I'll just go around and discover the truth,
And make things as nice, if not more."

He really expected to be amused
When he paid his first morning call;
But the ladies "begged to be excused,"
They'd been all night at a ball.

So the saint in wonder turned away,
And bravely tried once more;
But here they all had visits to pay,
And the footman showed him the door.

But he still kept on, and tried all kinds—
The good, the grave, the busy;
He saw all sorts of brains and minds.
Till they fairly turned him dizzy.

For one was practicing Mendelssohn
Alone in her maiden bower;
Another was carving an old dry bone,
While a third read Schopenhauer.

A fourth in water and oils could paint
All things beneath and above;
A fifth in good works was a perfect saint;
But they'd none of 'em time to love.

Sadly St. Valentine floated back
To the gate of good St. Peter.
"Alas," cried he, "of girls there's no lack,
And I must say I seldom saw sweeter.

"They're good and pretty, gay and wise;
They're nothing if not pedantic;
They know what they like and what they despise,
But don't they seem to be romantic."

Then St. Peter clanged the brazen gate,
And let in the dear old sinner,
Who'd been up early and staid out late,
And probably wanted his dinner.

MORAL.

I pray, sweet maids and youths beware,
And mind what you're about;
For now the saint's around, take care,
Don't let him "find you out."

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life in great danger. TRIED IN THE CRUCIBLE.

S.S.S.

About twenty years ago I discovered a little sore on my cheek, and the doctors pronounced it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise every one with cancer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.

WHEN THE KATYDIDS SING.

De grasshopper's jewsharp I can hear,
The katydid sing "zee zee,"
De night owl's sassy and say "who who"
As soon as he sees me,
An' Lucy she lean by de gate an' say,
"My Jasper I wish I could see."

I'se on de road, my own Lucy gal,
My footprints don't you hear,
She's so black I can't tell whar she am
Till I git pretty near,
Till kerbumps I run against her head,
An' she hollers, "Oh, Jasper, dear!"

Like a pair of saddle-flaps are her sweet lips,
An' she wears 'em just fur me,
An' a kiss from them is surely worth
A half a dozen others, you see;
While de tree tode warbles on de fence,
An' de katydid sing "zee zee."

Her voice it was made to fit her mouth,
An' you ought to hear her sp'ak my name,
Because it sounds so awfully mighty big,
An' I don't know who I am,
An' when does lips shut down on mine
Why, dey come down kerflam!"

Oh, her heart is almost as big as her feet,
An' her feet ain't very small,
Dey shake the floor in de ole cabin dance
When Uncle Zekel call;
An' de way she swing her pardner roun'—
Dat's me—wy, it beats 'em all.

Her teeth are so fine, when she opens her mouf
It looks like a china store,
An' her heels dey stick out further behind
Than they ever did before.
She wears no bangs like de white gals do,
An' so I lub her de more.

De grasshopper's jewsharp I kin hear,
De katydid sing "zee zee,"
An' Lucy meets me hyar at de gate,
An' who's so happy as me?
Oh, katydid, sing our weddin' chune
Way up in de simmon tree.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75cts., large bottles.

An Austin man who had been living in a rented house notified the landlord that he was going to move.

"I hope," said the landlord, "I will find the house in the same condition it was when you took it."

"No, I do not expect to leave it in the same condition that I found it."

"Well, you will have to do it."

"All right, then. I'll drop a cat in the cistern and advertise for bed bugs."

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are fidgetty, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of Liver and Kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at Wegner's Drug Store. 3

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

POISON IN THE ASHES

What the Mt. Lebanon Shakers Found—Incident in the History of a Quiet Community.

The Mount Lebanon (New York) Shakers are a quiet community, secluded from the fret and worry of the outside world. They are widely known, however, for their strict honor and probity in business.

The Shakers believe that nature has a remedy for every disease. A few have been found—the rest are as yet unknown. Many were discovered by accident. Others came to light as the result of patient experiment and research.

Nervous Dyspepsia is a comparatively new disease, growing out of the conditions of modern life. It is a joint affection of the digestive organs and of the nervous system. These two were formerly treated as separate ailments, and it was left for the clear-sighted Shakers to prove that the basis of this terrible and often fatal complication lies chiefly in the disordered and depraved functions of digestion and nutrition. They reasoned thus:—"If we can induce the stomach to do its work, and stimulate the excretive organs to drive out of the body the poisonous waste matters which remain after the life-giving elements of the food have been absorbed, we shall have conquered Nervous Dyspepsia and Nervous Exhaustion. And they were right. Knowing the infallible power of Shaker Extract (Seigel's Syrup) in less complicated though similar diseases, they resolved to test it fully in this. To leave no ground for doubt they prescribed the remedy in hundreds of cases which had been pronounced incurable—with perfect success in every instance where their directions as to living and diet were scrupulously followed. Nervous Dyspepsia and Exhaustion is a peculiarly American disease. To a greater or less extent half the people of this country suffer from it—both sexes and all ages. In no country in the world are there so many insane asylums filled to overflowing, all resulting from this alarming disease. Its leading symptoms are these: Frequent or continual headache; a dull pain at the base of the brain; bad breath; nauseous eructations; the rising of sour and pungent fluids to the throat; a sense of oppression and faintness at the pit of the stomach; flatulence; wakefulness and loss of sleep; disgust with food even when weak from the need of it; sticky or slimy matter on the teeth or in the mouth, especially on rising in the morning; furred and coated tongue; dull eyes; cold hands and feet; constipation; dry or rough skin; inability to fix the mind on any labor calling for continuous attention; and oppressive and sad forebodings and fears.

All this terrible group Shaker Extract (Seigel's Syrup) removes by its positive, powerful, direct yet painless and gentle action upon the functions of digestion and assimilation. Those elements of the food that build up and strengthen the system are sent upon their mission, while all waste matters (the ashes of life's fire) which unremoved, poison and kill, are expelled from the body through the bowels, kidneys and skin. The weak and prostrated nerves are quieted, toned and fed by the purified blood. As the result, health, with its enjoyments, blessings and power, returns to the sufferer who had, perhaps, abandoned all hope of ever seeing another well day.

For Husbands.

[Golden Rule.]

One often reads or hears it said that the peace and happiness of the household depends upon the wife or mother. The assertion is not strictly true. I'll allow that as she is or should be with her children more, her influence is greater than that of any one else; but does not the father's daily example sometimes counteract that influence? Children are close observers and are apt imitators of their elders. Should the father be addicted to the habit of fault-finding, especially in regard to the food set before him at meal time, and the weary, discouraged wife—in the vain attempt to defend her reputation as cook—arouses his ire by making excuses, then the children of the family will be listeners to an angry tirade, or what is worse—a quarrel—if mother has not complete control of her temper; and, of course, they will be apt to follow the example set before them, and discord will reign in the family. That is not an attractive picture of home life, yet in some families such a scene is enacted every day. Men often mar the happiness of wives and children by fault-finding, and surely they add nothing to their own peace of mind by indulging in it. It is just as much the husband's duty to sit down to the table with a cheerful, sunshiny face and make the best of the food set before him, as it is the wife's duty to keep the house in order and prepare the meals regularly.

Woman's efforts to please in the matter of cooking are rarely appreciated, or, if so, she hears no word of commendation. Men do not seem to realize how much a woman's heart hungers for words of praise from her husband's lips. If she prepares some dainty dish to tempt his appetite, he is too careless to note how eagerly she waits to know if he likes it. Appreciation is one of the best incentives the world affords. After the labors incident to the preparation of a meal, how it seems to rest a wife to hear her husband say: "How nice and light your biscuits are,' or, "Wife, this meat is cooked to suit my taste," and other words of commendation. A few words of approval repay her for her trouble.

Just try this for once, careless husband, and see if your wife's face don't light up, and all traces of weariness disappear on the instant. Oh, think of the many things you can do to brighten her life. A little appreciation by one she loves goes a long way toward making a woman happy. Many a weary wife drags out her life unappreciated, scarcely finding a word of sympathy from her husband.

"He has careful words for the stranger,
And smiles for the sometimes guest,
But oft for his own the bitter tone,
Though he loves his own the best."

That such a man's home is unhappy is mainly his own fault.

House of Straw.

A house of straw is now being constructed in Philadelphia to be shipped to England and erected on the grounds of the American exhibition in London. It is an American suburban villa of the most approved architectural design, two and a half stories high and covering a space 42x50 feet. It is built entirely of material manufactured from straw—straw timbers, straw lumber, straw decorations—the inside finish being of very handsome design, executed in imitation of rosewood, mahogany, oak, walnut and ash.

Experience vs. Inexperience.

It is a matter of regret that in introducing Hood's Sarsaparilla, its proprietors are obliged to overcome a certain distrust by some people who have unfortunately bought worthless compounds mixed by persons ignorant of pharmacy. Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co. are reliable pharmacists of long experience, and they make no claims for Hood's Sarsaparilla which cannot be substantiated by the strongest proof. And we say to those who lack confidence, read the unsolicited testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and then prove its merits by actual personal test. We are confident you will not be disappointed, but will find it a medicine of peculiar curative value, which can be implicitly relied upon.

A pine floor washed with a solution of one pound of copperas in a gallon of strong lye will appear very like an oak floor. The solution is also useful as an exterminator of insect pests so destructive to carpets and other woolen goods.

An antidote for poison by poison oak, ivy, etc., is to take a handful of quick lime, dissolve it in water, let it stand an hour, and paint the poisoned parts with it. It is said that three or four applications will cure the most aggravated cases.

Fruit stains upon cloth or upon the hands may be removed by rubbing them with the juice of ripe tomatoes. If applied immediately, powdered starch will also take stains out of table linen. Left on the spot a few hours it absorbs every trace of the stain.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer

Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Bronxham, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer pays more hard labor and money in a large family than any Keeper and Mover that ever was put on any farm with less than 300 acres in cultivation. If you will put up any instrument that will take as much labor off of men as this Washer takes off the women, and save as much money as it does and cost as much, I could sell one at every house, if they had to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it."

JOHN R. ROPER, JR., Jeweler, Normal, Ill., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Ans. It is the best machine ever invested by man. 24. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. 34. If you run short, you can not buy ours for $1000."

I will ship a sample to those desiring an agency on a week's trial at liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.
